David A. Halsey, MD, FAAOS is the Chief of the Orthopaedic Surgery Division at Martha’s Vineyard Hospital in Oak Bluffs, MA; Professor of Orthopaedics & Rehabilitation at the University of Vermont College of Medicine in Burlington, VT; and current President of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons (AAOS).

Dr. Halsey is a board-certified Orthopaedic surgeon with 28 years of experience with specialized interests in lower extremity sports medicine, hip and knee arthroplasty, integrated practice models and orthopaedic health policy.

Dr. Halsey’s commitment to the AAOS has included 10 years of service on the Board of Directors, Chair of the Council on Advocacy, Chair of the Board of Councilors and Chair of the Board in Specialty Societies.

Additionally, Dr. Halsey has had the opportunity to serve as an advisor to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS). His roles included the AAHKS specialty society representative to the American Medical Association’s Relative Update Value Committee and the Commission on Ambulatory Payment Classification.

Dr. Halsey is an instrument-rated pilot, an avid salt-water fisherman, and an active volunteer with the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary Aviation Wing, Flotilla 11-9.

His wife, Katie Doremus Halsey is a personal trainer with a focus in nutrition and sports specific training. They live, work, and play year-round in Edgartown on Martha’s Vineyard. They have two adult children, Stephen Halsey (UVM 2010) and Kirsten Halsey (BU School of Medicine, Physician Assistant Program 2017). Kirsten works with Dr. Luke S. Oh in the MGH Department of Orthopaedic Surgery Sports Medicine Center.
